Thank you for supporting the Jacques-Bélanger and Pierre-Verge CRIMT Scholarships Fund

Jacques Bélanger was a Full professor in the Industrial Relations Department at Université Laval and the co-director and co-founder of CRIMT. Drawing on the finest British empiricist traditions, he developed a rigorous ethnographic approach that would guide his highly innovative research in an effort to comprehend actor strategies in the world of work, convinced as he was of the coherence of their reasoning. His contributions to the analysis of the foundations of conflict and cooperation, to the study of forms of resistance and consent on the part of employees, to the understanding of multinational firms and to the development of comparative industrial relations research have sparked a whole generation of younger scholars.

Pierre Verge was an Emeritus professor at the Faculty of Law, Université Laval, and a co-founder of CRIMT. A true humanist and a rigorous scholar, through his prodigious body of work, he helped to establish labour law within the larger field of law, while emphasizing its universality and fundamental importance. His efforts to understand the transformations of labour law, notably through his interdisciplinary work within CRIMT, highlight the multiplication of sources and norms of regulation and the re-articulations between them – always with the objective of developing a coherent legal doctrine in synch with the realities of the world of work.

The Jacques-Bélanger CRIMT Scholarship is aimed at students whose work deals with the study of actors in multinational companies or the organization of work, with a preference for those involving an ethnographic approach or a research stay abroad.

The Pierre-Verge CRIMT Scholarship is aimed at students whose work deals with collective autonomy, international labour law, or the articulation of sources of labour law, with a preference for those integrating work from the social and human sciences in the analysis of the legal regulation of labour.

The Jacques-Bélanger and Pierre-Verge CRIMT Scholarships support full-time graduate students in Quebec universities whose masters' or doctoral dissertations fits within the research program of the Interuniversity Research Centre on Globalization and Work.

INTERUNIVERSITY RESEARCH CENTRE ON GLOBALIZATION AND WORK (CRIMT)

The research activities of the Interuniversity Research Centre on Globalization and Work (CRIMT) focus on the theoretical and practical challenges of institutional and organizational renewal in the areas of work and employment in the global era. The acronym CRIMT refers to the centre in both French and English. Established in 2003, CRIMT brings together 180 specialists in industrial and labour relations, labour and employment policies, human resource management, labour law and geography, including 47 in Quebec, 16 in the rest of Canada and 117 in a dozen other countries. Its three founding institutions are the University of Montréal, Université Laval and HEC Montréal.

Our research program mobilizes an International Partnership of 19 world-class research centres and institutes at the crossroads of several disciplines, research traditions and themes.
